STORM WATER

Pet waste is more than a nuisance. It can carry harmful bacteria, viruses, and parasites that threaten people, pets, wildlife, and water quality. When left on the ground, rain can wash these pollutants into rivers, lakes, and streams, where they can harm aquatic life. The solution is simple: pick it up, bag it, and throw it in the trash. Do not flush pet waste or compost it, as wastewater systems and compost piles are not designed to safely handle it. Proper disposal helps protect public health, keep waterways clean, and create a healthier environment for everyone.

CEMETERY

A full cemetery clean up will take place on November 2,2026. Please remove all decorations and personal items before this date.
